Post-Office Clerks Elect Delegates.

At a special meeting last Sunday for election of delegates to the convention of the United National Association of Post-Office Clerks the following representatives were chosen to represent the local branch: B. A. O'Hara, John M. Tan, John J. Payton, Martin J. O'Brien, John L. Glinn, Oliver C. Miller, Charles C. Turley, Frank Stricker, Robert E. Connelly and John J. Spelman. The convention meets in St. Louis September 5 to 10, and arrangements have been completed to entertain the delegates and visitors. The local branch of post-office clerks has 520 members and is one of the best organized branches in the country. There are 40 branches affiliated with the national body, which represent a total membership of more than 2,000 post-office clerks.

Sick Boy in Matron's Care.

Patrolman Schaeferkoetter found a dead-and-dumb boy on a Compton Heights car and took him to the City Hospital for observation. It was found that he was suffering from St. Vitus' dance, in addition to his other affliction. He was taken to the Four Courts and placed in the matron's care until something can be learned of his relatives.

REVENUES LEFFER TO DRESS GORROTES

Professor Starr Declares That Demand for Pants Is Due to Gross Immorality.

WOULD WORK GREAT INJURY.

Agitation, Asserts Eminent Anthropologist, Is Silly and Not at All a Sign of Educational Advancement.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Chicago, July 19.—Professor Frederick Starr of the University of Chicago declared in the course of a discussion of the gorrotes that it was the innate modesty of our best citizens that resulted in the demand that the natives on exhibition at the St. Louis Fair be adorned with trousers.

Professor Starr designated such an attempt as an outrage and said that it was not even false modesty but immorality that inspired the attempt to clothe these wards of the nation.

The statement grew out of a question in class whether the officials of the Exposition would consent to clothe the gorrotes. It was Professor Starr who went to Northern Japan and secured the hairy Ainus for the big fair. His enthusiasm for anthropological subjects has led him to advertise a three-weeks' course of study, which he will conduct at the fair next month.

"It is shameful how it is immoral of our people is trying to force this outrage upon these people and upon the fair," he said. "I am sincerely sorry for the good people of our land whose sense of propriety would be offended by sight of one of these interesting peoples of our country exhibited in their natural attire. It would be cruel and dangerous to compel these people to don trousers. They would suffer greatly from the heat and there would be danger of infection and disease."

"They are a well-developed people and have no deformities of body that might create on the nerves of the superstitious. You can't make civilized citizens out of them in one summer, no matter how much our very modest people would like to have this done."

"The people who have been filling their pockets with the officials of the fair are really to be pitied. They do not know what the fair is for."

"These strange people of our new possessions were brought to the fair that our people might see and study some of the strange peoples of the islands. They are on exhibition as representatives of a peculiar semicivilized race, not as a curiosity. Dress scantily, it is true, but what of that? They appear at the fair just as you would find them if you visited them in their native state."

"Years ago, you know, the Japanese had a practice of bathing together. Nude women and men were accustomed to bathe in the same pool at the same time. Not so any more. The change was not brought about because the Japanese felt that this was improper or against right. Not at all. Not until our good Americans got hold of them and taught them the awful wickedness of the habit did they change."

"It is this same revolutionary feeling or sense of duty that has prompted the protest to the officials of the fair. It is silly and not at all a sign of educational advancement."

CORN SUFFERS FROM LACK OF CULTIVATION.

Wheat Harvest Practically Completed in Missouri and Nebraska—Cotton Makes Rapid Growth.

Washington, July 19.—The following is the summary of the Weather Bureau's weekly crop report:

East of the Rocky Mountains the temperature during the week ending July 18 was highly favorable, but in the Pacific States and over the western portions of the middle and northern sections of the country, the weather was not so favorable. In the Pacific States, with light to heavy frosts on the 18th, Washington and Oregon were in the central and northern portions of the Ohio Valley and Middle Atlantic States, corn had, however, suffered from the effects of the drought. In the Pacific States, the weather was not so favorable. In the Pacific States, the weather was not so favorable.

As the Exposition Company expects the defendants to take changes of venue in some of the cases, suits will be filed before other Justices as soon as the papers can be prepared. It is said. The suits are to be tried by Attorneys L. A. Leonard and A. B. Chandler.

World's Fair representatives stated yesterday that to date $1,000,000 had been paid in on the stock, and that more than $50,000 had been paid up within the last eight weeks. It was stated that the stock had been over-subscribed, and some $100,000 therefore remained outstanding, for which suits are to be brought.

In the Circuit Court thirty cases are pending. The Exposition Company yesterday won those already tried.

The defendants in the cases filed yesterday are as follows:

Before Justice Spaulding—J. M. Galvin, 450; M. Schmidt, No. 172 South Broadway, 47; W. L. Davidson, No. 114 North 4th street, 48; W. C. Gormley, No. 441 Kennedy avenue, 49; and Henry Sturman, No. 715 Washington, 50.
